Chinese Language Arts

We have finished Meizhou Chinese lesson one and we will have two assessments next week for the characters that we learned in this lesson. One assessment is fill-in-the-blanks with the new characters and the other is dictation.

Level Chinese Reading Assessments

We did two Level Chinese reading assessments this week: reading foundation and reading informational texts. Since we test all kids to their guided reading level, some students need to continue with their assessments next week. The end of third grade benchmark for fictional reading is independent level at G, guided reading level at H. The benchmark for informational text reading level is independent level at F, guided reading level at G. My goal for my two classes in reading is 100% proficient.

Homework

We started reading log homework this week. Chinese reading log goes home on Mondays (except when Monday is a holiday) and returns to me the following Monday with all entries complete. Any entry missing is considered incomplete. I will be sharing a spreadsheet of homework status next week. Mei Zhou Chinese worksheets page 1 to page 18 are due next Monday too. Please staple the pages to turn in.

Theatre Field Trip

Field trip permission slips are sent out on Permission Click this year. We just sent one out for a show, My Father's Dragon by Peninsula Youth Theatre yesterday. Thanks to the parents who granted permission and turned in the donation of 10 dollars. While donation is not mandatory, every dollar donated makes our field trip programs sustainable. We can have three field trip chaperones, please email me if you are interested. First come first serve.

Parent Volunteers

Our room parents have posted volunteer requests on Konstella. Please check if you would be able to volunteer for our regular art and CLIP Art classes. Your work makes a difference for us. Kudos to our first art volunteer team this Thursday!
